33. Development Innovation Ventures Annual Program Statement (APS)

Funding Source:

USAID – Agency for International Development [Federal]

Deadline:

04/15/2014

Description:

Grants are available to USA and International businesses, individuals, non-profits, and others for a broad range of innovative solutions that will address a development challenge affecting a large population. Letters of Intent are due December 16, for proposals that will primarily benefit individuals in poverty or extreme poverty, and other vulnerable groups (including but not limited to women and girls, refugee or displaced communities, minority or indigenous groups, and the disabled).

DIV is interested in innovations that are expected to lead to transformative (as opposed to incremental) improvements to development outcomes that could ultimately scale across multiple developing countries and, ideally, multiple sectors in these countries. Innovative solutions can include new technologies and new service delivery practices or novel or more cost-effective variations on existing practices. Solutions are expected to eventually scale up through the private sector, the public sector, or a combination of the two in order to reach sustainability without DIV support. To meet DIV's requirements, most successful applicants form a coalition of partners with diverse skills.

The DIV model emphasizes testing potential solutions and rigorously evaluating impact to identify what works well and what does not. Successful solutions that scale through the public sector will have gathered evidence of impact using a rigorous evaluation methodology, such as an experimental or quasi-experimental evaluation, to obtain legitimate measurements. At scale, successful private sector solutions will demonstrate commercial viability, as well as measure improvements in social outcomes or impacts related to the solution (such as improvements in health, education, income, empowerment, etc. of people in developing countries).

DIV uses a three-tiered staged finance model to maximize cost-effectiveness and minimize the risk of testing new ideas. The applicant chooses a stage level based on how far their project is in its development and to what extent they have previously gathered evidence of its success. In other words, the stage is not defined by the level of funding needed. Many DIV projects leverage funding from other sources.

DIV seeks to test promising solutions, and uses the staged financing approach to mitigate risk. The amount and rigor of evidence required increases as more resources are requested by an applicant. Stage-specific requirements are delineated below.

Stage 1: Proof of Concept

Stage 1 funding is intended to test the real-world viability of an innovative development solution. The application must describe how the solution is clearly linked to a specific development challenge, and how the solution has the potential to produce significant impact at eventual scale.

Stage 2: Scaling and Impact Evaluation

Stage 2 funding is provided to innovative solutions that have already demonstrated success at a small scale stage, and now require support to assess if the solution can achieve larger scale development impact and can be implemented successfully at a larger scale. Applicants must demonstrate at the time of application that they have already satisfied Stage 1 criteria. This may have occurred with DIV funds or with other sources of support.

Stage 3: Transitioning Projects to Large Scale

Stage 3 funding is reserved for innovative solutions that have already established credible evidence of development impacts at significant scale. Stage 3 projects will transition a solution from large scale implementation to widespread adoption in one country and/or replication in at least one additional country. In a country where the population is over 100 million the widespread adoption can be in a portion of the country. Applicants must have already satisfied Stage 1 and Stage 2 criteria. This may have occurred with DIV funds or with other sources of support.

Illustrative examples of innovative solutions that DIV may support include:

* New tools for more effective agriculture extension, and testing for the most effective way to reach scale

- * New approaches for sanitation demand creation and sanitation marketing
- * Behavior change approaches drawing on insights from psychology and behavioral economics
- * Solutions that advance equality between females and males, and empower women and girls to participate fully in and benefit from the development of their societies, producing concrete improvements (e.g. a program that significantly increases women's voting rates)
- * New methods to reduce absenteeism among frontline health and education workers
- * Testing proof of concept for a solar lighting system distributed by local entrepreneurs at a price/service point that induces wide adoption
- * A rigorous evaluation for a larger scale innovative project that will itself be funded by other partners where the evaluation will demonstrate the magnitude of development outcomes and the cost effectiveness of the project, and such evidence will help the project reach scale

Estimated Size of Grant:

Stage 1 funding requests will typically not exceed $100,000 per project. Stage 2 projects will typically not exceed $1 million but are often significantly less. Stage 3 projects will typically not exceed $15 million but are often significantly less.

Term of Contract:

Stage 1 projects can propose activities for up to two years. Stage 2 projects can propose activities for up to five years, although they are generally shorter. Stage 3 projects can propose activities for up to five years.

Description:

DISASTER GRANTS & TOOLS

Grants ranging of up to $25,000 to non-profits across the United States with innovative programs that strengthen selected communities in the areas of: health and human services, hunger relief, education, and helping people with disabilities. The Foundation provides funding in three different categories:

1. Requests localized in a single City or State: projects that have a positive impact in local communities and fulfill one or more of the above-mentioned funding priorities. Requests to support events and requests for food donations are also considered in this subset. Grant requests are typically between $2,500 and $10,000. In DC, Virginia, Maryland, and Delaware, the grant amounts vary between $1,000 - $5,000.

Please note: All Southern California requests must be sponsored by an employee. Requests without a sponsor will not be considered. In Northern California, it is strongly recommended that you secure an employee sponsor prior to submitting an application.

2. Requests supported by a Corporate Employee: grant requests in this area are typically localized to the San Francisco Bay Area and range from $2,500 to $10,000.

3. Requests that are National or Regional in scope: the Foundation likes to fund projects and does not supply overhead or operating support. The Foundation prefers to see its money invested directly in the community. Grant requests are evaluated based on the organization's efficiency, if the program fits with the Foundation's funding priorities, and if the effects directly impact the community. Grant requests are typically up to $25,000.

Estimated Size of Grant:

Up to $25,000

51. New York State Council on the Arts (NYSCA) Grants

Funding Source:

New York State Council on the Arts [State]

Deadline:

Ongoing

Description:

Grants of $2,500 or more for artistic expression in settings from classrooms, community centers to parks in: Architecture Facilities Planning & Design, Arts Education, Dance, Electronic Media & Film, Folk Arts, Individual Artists, Literature, Museum, Music, Presenting, Special Arts Services, State & Local Partnerships, Theater, and Visual Arts. Grants will be available to eligible New York State entities for artistic projects and services and are evaluated based on artistic excellence, cultural diversity, and the variety of public settings and contexts in which they will be presented. Projects funded reflect the diversity of the state, have broad public access, and are located in safe and accessible venues.

NYSCA believes in artistic excellence without boundaries and an evaluation process that embraces the widest variety of cultural and artistic expression being offered to the public in a broad array of settings and contexts from classrooms and community centers...to parks and open spaces...to more traditional venues. NYSCA considers four dimensions of artistic work when evaluating applications:

1. IDEA – the concept or artistic impetus behind the work.
2. PRACTICE – the effectiveness of how the work is put into practice and the impact it has on those experiencing it.
3. DEVELOPMENT – the contribution the work makes to the development of the artists involved, the art form, and the arts more widely.
4. CONTEXT – the context in which the work is being presented and the appropriateness of the work to that context.

Additional criteria include the organization's managerial/fiscal competence, governance, organizational management, and financial management.

As a public funder, NYSCA must ensure that its grants support a broad array of cultural activity that fully represents the diversity of the state and that the supported events are accessible to the broadest possible public in every region of the state. In addition, it must do its due diligence to ensure that the organizations and events supported comply with accepted safety and accessibility standards.

1. PROMOTION AND OUTREACH – the organization demonstrates that it makes significant efforts to reach a broad and diverse audience through marketing and public relations efforts.
2. AUDIENCE DEVELOPMENT – the organization offers thoughtful and well-designed educational and interpretive activities that help build audience appreciation and understanding of the organization and the work being produced, presented, or exhibited.
3. AUDIENCE/VISITOR PARTICIPATION – the organization can demonstrate a public commitment to their programs and activities through attendance data (relevant to the population of the community served) as well as customer satisfaction surveys (if available and appropriate).
4. SAFETY & ACCESSIBILITY – the activities and events that support is being sought for will take place in venues that are fully accessible to the public and comply with all safety and accessibility standards.
5. DIVERSITY OF PROGRAMMING – programming reflects significant efforts to reach a broad array of artists and audiences.
6. COMMUNITY SERVICE – the organization demonstrates value to its community through partnerships with local businesses and schools, free and low-cost events, and in other appropriate ways.

Grants are made only to non-profit organizations certified as tax exempt under Sections 501(c)(3) or 170(c) of the Internal Revenue Code and are classified as "not a private foundation" under Section 509(a). Hospitals, educational institutions and governmental institutions meeting these requirements are eligible to apply.

Organizations that have completed and filed Form 1023 but not yet received an IRS determination letter are not eligible to apply.

The Foundation does not make grants or loans to individuals.

As a general practice, RGK Foundation refrains from funding:

56. Quality of Life Grants Program

Overview

The Reeve Foundation awards Quality of Life grants up to $25,000 to nonprofit organizations that provide services to individuals with paralysis.

Quality of Life grants, conceived by the late Dana Reeve, are awarded to programs or projects that improve the daily lives of people with paralysis, with some emphasis on but not limited to paralysis caused by spinal cord injuries. She started the Quality of Life grants program to recognize and support organizations that help disabled individuals, their families and caregivers in ways that increase independence, day-to-day happiness, and access.

Funding is awarded twice yearly to nonprofit organizations that provide critical life-enhancing and life-changing programs and services that improve physical and emotional health. Funded projects offer a diversity of services and approaches: improving access; providing education and job training; sponsoring organized sporting opportunities; and more to individuals living with paralysis and their communities.

Quality of Life grants are funded through a cooperative agreement with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (Award #1U59DD000383-1). These grants are awarded to nonprofit organizations that address that needs of people living with paralysis caused by spinal cord and other injuries, diseases and birth conditions, including (but not limited to) stroke, spina bifida, multiple sclerosis, cerebral palsy and amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS).

The Reeve Foundation gives special consideration to organizations that serve returning wounded military and their families, and to those that provide targeted services to diverse cultural communities.

Since 1999, the Reeve Foundation has provided 2,205 grants totaling $16.6 million to organizations worldwide that help improve opportunities, access and quality of life for individuals living with paralysis, their families and their communities. This program recognizes the unique and numerous needs of these individuals and the importance of providing services and programs that enable them to participate in all areas of life.

Who Should Apply?

The Reeve Foundation supports, through Quality of Life grants, nonprofit organizations that serve individuals with physical disabilities, particularly paralysis, and their families. The Foundation aids larger organizations in representing and protecting the individuals with physical disabilities on a national level as well as local groups in having an immediate and practical impact on individual lives.

The Reeve Foundation cannot award grants to individuals, but the Information Specialist Team at the Paralysis Resource Center (PRC) can help individuals identify resources that can provide financial assistance. Please call the PRC (800-539-7309) and request to speak with an Information Specialist.

Quality of Life grants are most often awarded to nonprofit organizations that have IRS 501(c)(3) status, but may also be awarded to community parks, schools, veterans hospitals, tribal entities, etc. Quality of Life grants are awarded to projects and programs within the United States of America. Reeve Foundation does not award funding outside of the United States of America.

APPLYING FOR A GRANT

Application Deadlines:

In order to be considered for a particular meeting of the trustees, applicants should submit a letter of inquiry at least three months prior to the intended board meeting. In other words, to be considered at the February meeting, you should submit a letter of inquiry no later than November 1; for May, submit by February

Important Information for all AFF Partners and Applicant

Before Applying

Applicants should carefully review materials describing our programs and mission. In particular, applicants should pay special attention to AFF's overarching grantmaking theme of the Transition approach (For more information about the Transition Framework, see www.transitionandsocialchange.org).

Statement of Inclusion

All applicants are required to join AFF in agreeing not to discriminate in any way including, but not limited to, access to program participation or employment against any person or group on the basis of race, color, religion, national origin, ethnicity, gender, age, disability, or sexual orientation. If a program is designed for a specific population defined by any of these criteria, this policy shall be subject to appropriate adjustment in consultation with AFF.

Faith-Based Organizations

Faith-based organizations should carefully review the Advisory to Faith-Based Organizations on the "Applying for a Grant" page of this website and be sure to fill out the appropriate section of the grant application.

Proposal

The first step in applying for a grant is to submit an Online AFF Application, which includes an explanation of the project for which funds are sought. The letter should include: a succinct description of the application organization; a brief description of the project and how it accomplishes AFF's program strategies; information about the key participants, including staff members and beneficiaries; and a section on how you envision the Transition framework will be intentionally and consistently incorporated into your work.

AFF makes its best effort to conduct a preliminary review of an applicant's proposal within forty-five days of its receipt. After this initial review, AFF will either decline funding the proposal or the applicant may be asked to submit more information. In some cases, AFF may ask to meet with the applicant organization to further discuss the applicant's plans.

Formal Proposal

If a formal proposal is requested, AFF provides applicants with a detailed list of requirements including: description of the applicant organization, including its background, mission, and relevant experience in the area for which funds are sought; a statement of need for the proposed project; a complete description of the project, including your thoughts on how Bridges' Transition framework will enhance and be incorporated into your work; the plan of operation for carrying out the project; qualifications and experience of principal staff members involved; the amount of funds requested from AFF; the duration of the project; measuring success; an itemized project budget; plan for sustaining the project post-AFF; and a list of board members, advisors, and affiliates of the organization. Applicants are also required to attach copies of the organization's tax exemption notice and classification from the IRS, and most recent financial statements.

AFF notifies applicants of its decision on the formal proposal within ninety days of receipt of all materials.

Transition Coaching

While the willingness to intentionally and consistently pay attention to Transition throughout your project is a condition to being considered for funding by us, we recognize the challenges inherent in taking advantage of this theory to enhance your practice. In order to help grantees face this challenge, each is assigned a Transition coach - an experienced consultant who has been trained extensively in managing Transition - who provides Transition training and Transition-related program development assistance to project staff, stakeholders and beneficiaries. The costs for this consultation will be added to a successful applicant's grant budget

75. Cigna Foundation World of Difference Grants

The Cigna approach to service is built on interactions with people as individuals—on listening to them; on finding out what makes them unique; and then on working with them to discover the path to health that best suits those personal strengths.

Now the Cigna Foundation—through its World of Difference Grants program—is looking for nonprofit organizations who share this approach, to closely collaborate on projects that address four health focus areas. Pilot grants of $75,000-$125,000 will cover the initial year of this collaboration. After that pilot period, projects that meet established objectives may be offered either development or program grants at appropriate funding levels.

Program Requirements

- A pilot (or early stage) multi-year project that directly serves the needs of individuals in the health focus area under consideration
- A focus on a specific health challenge or related group of challenges being faced by those individuals
- An innovative approach that stresses the importance of engaging the individuals being served in meeting the health challenges related to project objectives
- Opportunities for volunteer involvement by the Cigna team
- Potential to expand to additional geographic areas (special consideration will be given to projects that provide or have the potential to provide services globally)
- A fiscally-sound development plan with strong emphasis on metrics, analysis and reporting

Please note: the success of the Cigna Foundation World of Difference Grants depends on your cooperation. We ask that you thoroughly review the information in our Grant FAQs and this Guidelines section—and that you only submit applications relevant to the topic areas outlined in the Guidelines Health Focus Area section. We cannot guarantee that any application falling outside those basic guidelines will be acknowledged. Thank you!

All organizations requesting funding must be current 501(c)(3) public charities.

Organizations seeking funding from the Cigna Foundation should follow these procedures:

1. Become thoroughly familiar with the contributions program of Cigna and the Cigna Foundation. Relevant information is available in the About Us/Community section of www.cigna.com.
2. For first-time users: click here to register online.
3. Once successfully registered and before going on to complete the application process, fully review the steps required to apply for a World of Difference Grant, which call for a large amount of detailed information.
4. Fully complete and submit the application form. (You may save incomplete applications and return to them as many times as you wish before submitting a final application.)
5. Be patient! While we strive to respond to all applications within four weeks of submission, response times vary and could be considerably longer than our four-week target. Unless we require further information, we will not contact you between the time we receive your application and our final response.

Please understand that the grants program of the Cigna Foundation is highly selective and grant opportunities are limited. While we are always interested in learning about creative new programs that positively impact the health of individuals and families and the well-being of our communities, we can only support a few such projects in any year. Potential grantees should keep this limitation in mind before proceeding to apply for a Cigna Foundation grant.

Additional Information

Agency Name:

Economic Development Administration

Description:

Through this Disaster Relief Opportunity, EDA intends to award investments in regions experiencing severe economic distress as a result of natural disasters that were declared as major Federal disasters between October 1, 2010 and September 30, 2011. Under this announcement, EDA solicits applications for Economic Adjustment Assistance (EAA) investments under PWEDA. The EAA program provides recipients with flexible tools to develop and implement regionally based long term economic development strategies in response to major Federally declared disasters. The EAA program provides a wide range of technical, disaster recovery, economic recovery planning, and public works assistance. It responds adaptively to pressing economic recovery issues and is well-suited to help address challenges faced by regions affected by natural disasters.

Through this program, EDA can support the development of disaster recovery strategies and recovery implementation, including infrastructure improvements and by using revolving loan funds (RLFs). EDA recognizes that urgent infrastructure rebuilding needs exist throughout disaster impacted regions. In EDA's experience with post disaster recovery, the most effective long-term rebuilding efforts are based on long-term development or redevelopment strategies. For this reason, EDA encourages the submission of applications based on long-term, regionally oriented and collaborative economic development or redevelopment strategies that foster economic growth and resiliency. EDA will regard applications that are substantively supported by such strategies as more competitive, while applications for rebuilding damaged infrastructure that are not demonstrably supported by a long-term plan for economic growth and resilience will not be considered competitive. To be competitive, applications must clearly incorporate principles for enhancing the resiliency (as defined in section I.C. of the FY 12 Disaster Relief FFO) of the relevant community/region or demonstrate the integration of resiliency principles into the investment itself. The incorporation of disaster resiliency is an essential aspect of mitigating the potential for future losses and adverse economic impacts for communities. The inclusion of resiliency principles in the project is a necessary step to improve the capacity of the region to recover more quickly in the future. In addition, applicants must demonstrate a clear nexus between their proposed project scope of work and disaster recovery and resiliency efforts. The strength of the nexus to the disaster is drawn from the consequences of the disaster(s) that made the community eligible and the intended project outcomes. As noted above, please read the FY 12 Disaster Relief FFO carefully for all of EDA's eligibility and program requirements under this announcement. The FFO is provided as an attachment to this synopsis and a link to the FFO is provided below.

4. Section 811 Supportive Housing for Persons with Disabilities

Summary:

Through the Section 811 Supportive Housing for Persons with Disabilities program, HUD provides funding to develop and subsidize rental housing with the availability of supportive services for very low- and extremely low-income adults with disabilities.

Purpose:

The Section 811 program allows persons with disabilities to live as independently as possible in the community by subsidizing rental housing opportunities which provide access to appropriate supportive services.

Type of Assistance:

The newly reformed Section 811 program is authorized to operate in two ways: (1) the traditional way, by providing interest-free capital advances and operating subsidies to nonprofit developers of affordable housing for persons with disabilities; and (2) providing project rental assistance to state housing agencies. The assistance to the state housing agencies can be applied to new or existing multifamily housing complexes funded through different sources, such as Federal Low-Income Housing Tax Credits, Federal HOME funds, and other state, Federal, and local programs. The last appropriation was appropriated for traditional 811 capital advances was made in FY 2011.

Capital Advances

HUD has traditionally provided interest-free capital advances to nonprofit sponsors to help them finance the development of rental housing such as independent living projects, condominium units and small group homes with the availability of supportive services for persons with disabilities. The capital advance can finance the construction, rehabilitation, or acquisition with or without rehabilitation of supportive housing. The advance does not have to be repaid as long as the housing remains available for very low-income persons with disabilities for at least 40 years.

HUD also provides project rental assistance contracts for properties developed using Section 811 capital advances; this covers the difference between the HUD-approved operating cost of the project and the amount the residents pay--usually 30 percent of adjusted income. The initial term of the project rental assistance contract is 3 years and can be renewed if funds are available.

Each project must have a supportive services plan. The appropriate State or local agency reviews a potential sponsor's application to determine if the plan is well designed to meet the needs of persons with disabilities and must certify to the same. Services may vary with the target population but could include case management, training in independent living skills and assistance in obtaining employment. However, residents cannot be required to accept any supportive service as a condition of occupancy.

Nonprofit organizations with a Section 501(c)(3) tax exemption from the Internal Revenue Service can apply for a capital advance to develop a Section 811 project.

Project Rental Assistance

A new Project Rental Assistance program was authorized by the Frank Melville Supportive Housing Investment Act of 2010, and was first implemented through a demonstration program in FY 2012.

Under this program, state housing agencies that have entered into partnerships with state health and human services and Medicaid agencies can apply for Section 811 Project Rental Assistance for new or existing affordable housing developments funded by LIHTC, HOME, or other sources of funds. Under the state health care/housing agency partnership, the health care agency must develop a policy for referrals, tenant selection, and service delivery to ensure that this housing is targeted to a population most in need of deeply affordable supportive housing. This Section 811 assistance comes in the form of project rental assistance alone. No funds are available for construction or rehabilitation.

Eligible grantees are state housing agencies that have entered into partnerships with state health and human services and Medicaid agencies who then allocate rental assistance to projects funded by tax credits, HOME funds, or other sources.

Eligible Customers:

For projects funded by capital advances and supported by project rental assistance contracts (PRACs), households must be very low-income (within 50 percent of the median income for the area) with at least one adult member with a disability (such as a physical or developmental disability or chronic mental illness).

For projects funded with Project Rental Assistance, residents must be extremely low-income (within 30 percent of the median income for the area) with at least one adult member with a disability. States may establish additional eligibility requirements for this program.

Application:

Applicants must submit an application in response to a Notice of Funding Availability (NOFA) posted on Grants.gov.

Technical Guidance:

This program is authorized by Section 811 of the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990 (P.L. 101-625) as amended by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1992 (P.L. 102-550), the Rescission Act (P.L. 104-19) the American Homeownership and Opportunity Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-569), and the Frank Melville Supportive Housing Act of 2010 (P.L. 111-374). ## 5. Assisted Living Conversion Program (ALCP)

Summary:

To provide private, nonprofit owners of eligible developments with a grant to convert some or all of the dwelling units in the project into an Assisted Living Facility (ALF) or Service-Enriched Housing (SEH) for elderly residents aging in place. An ALF must be licensed and regulated by the State (or if there is no State law providing such licensing and regulation, by the municipality or other subdivision in which the facility is located). Service-Enriched Housing is housing that accommodates the provision of services to elderly residents who need assistance with activities of daily living in order to live independently.

Purpose:

Assisted Living Facilities (ALFs) are designed to accommodate frail elderly and people with disabilities who can live independently but need assistance with activities of daily living (e.g., assistance with eating, bathing, grooming, dressing and home management activities) ALFs must provide support services such as personal care, transportation, meals, housekeeping, and laundry.

Service-Enriched Housing (SEH) is housing that is designed to accommodate frail elderly persons or elderly persons with service needs who are aging in place. Residents are able to live independently but need assistance with activities of daily living comparable to services typically provided in a licensed assisted living facility, such as healthcare-related services. These supportive services must be available through a licensed or certified third party service provider.

Type of Assistance:

Typical funding will cover basic physical conversion of existing project units, common and services space. The ALCP provides funding for the physical costs of converting some or all of the units of an eligible development into an ALF or SEH, including the unit configuration, common and services space and any necessary remodeling, consistent with HUD or the State's statute/regulations (whichever is more stringent). ALFs or SEH must have sufficient community space to accommodate provisions of meals and supportive services, as well as other requirements described in the NOFA.

Funding for the supportive services does not come from HUD but must be coordinated by the owners or residents, either directly or through a third party. Supportive services may include Medicaid services and programs provided by the State, an Area Agency on Aging, Money Follows the Person funds, State Home Health Care programs, State Assisted Living Services funds, Congregate Housing Services Program funds, Service Coordinator funds or similar programs.

Eligible Grantees:

Eligible projects must be owned by a private, nonprofit entity, and designated primarily for occupancy by elderly persons. Projects must have completed final closing and must have been in occupancy for at least five years from the date of the HUD approved form HUD-92485 (Permission to Occupy Project Mortgage). Eligible projects may only receive one grant award per fiscal year.

Eligible projects must also qualify as one of the following:

- Section 202 direct loan projects with or without Section 8 rental assistance;
- Section 202 capital advance projects receiving rental assistance under their Project Rental Assistance Contract (PRAC);
- Section 515 rural housing projects receiving Section 8 rental assistance;
- Other projects receiving Section 8 project-based rental assistance;
- Projects subsidized with Section 221(d)(3) below-market interest mortgage; or
- Projects assisted under Section 236 of the National Housing Act.

Eligible Residents:

For ALF, eligible residents who meet the admissions/discharge requirements as established for assisted living by State and local licensing, or HUD frailty requirements under 24 CFR891.205 if more stringent. The residents must be able to live independently but need assistance with activities of daily living (e.g., assistance with eating, bathing, grooming, dressing and home management activities).

Service-Enriched Housing is designed to accommodate elderly persons and people with disabilities with a functional limitation, meaning residents who unable to perform at least one activity of daily living.

Application:

Applicants must submit an application for funding, in response to the Notice of Funding Availability (NOFA) published in the Federal Register each fiscal year that funds are available.

Technical Guidance:

The Program is authorized under Section 202b of the Housing Act of 1959, as amended by the Section 202 Supportive Housing for the Elderly Act of 2010. HUD's Office of Multifamily Housing is responsible for administering the Assisted Living Conversion Program. For more information, please contact your local HUD office.

STATEN ISLAND, July 2, 2013 - The American Red Cross has awarded a $2,968,424 grant to New York Disaster Interfaith Services (NYDIS) to support long-term recovery services for people affected by Superstorm Sandy.
Founded in response to 9/11, NYDIS is a faith-based federation of more than 80 service providers and charitable organizations that collaborate to provide disaster readiness, response and recovery services to New York City. NYDIS will use the grant both to administer the New York City Sandy Unmet Needs Roundtable and to distribute grant dollars through the New York City Unmet Needs Fund. The Unmet Needs Roundtable program is an established long-term recovery resource that customizes assistance for eligible Sandy clients in need. NYDIS will also use the grant to coordinate housing needs for volunteers travelling to New York City to assist in efforts to repair or rebuild homes in all five boroughs.
"Superstorm Sandy wreaked havoc in our region and many people are still on the road to recovery," said Josh Lockwood, CEO, Red Cross Greater New York Region. "The Red Cross partnership with NYDIS will enable these individuals impacted by Sandy to have their outstanding needs met through the Unmet Needs Roundtable program. Unmet Needs Roundtables are used nationally as a tool for long-term disaster recovery, and we are fortunate to have NYDIS and other funding partners in this effort."

This process is grounded in the conviction that a partnership should develop between the nonprofit and the donor. When you spend a great deal of your time seeking money, it is hard to remember that it can also be difficult to give money away. In fact, the dollars contributed by a foundation or corporation have no value until they are attached to solid programs in the nonprofit sector.

This truly is an ideal partnership. The nonprofits have the ideas and the capacity to solve problems, but no dollars with which to implement them. The foundations and corporations have the financial resources but not the other resources needed to create programs. Bring the two together effectively, and the result is a dynamic collaboration.

You need to follow a step-by-step process in the search for private dollars. It takes time and persistence to succeed. After you have written a proposal, it could take as long as a year to obtain the funds needed to carry it out. And even a perfectly written proposal submitted to the right prospect might be rejected for any number of reasons.

Raising funds is an investment in the future. Your aim should be to build a network of foundation and corporate funders, many of which give small gifts on a fairly steady basis and a few of which give large, periodic grants. By doggedly pursuing the various steps of the process, each year you can retain most of your regular supporters and strike a balance with the comings and goings of larger donors.

The recommended process is not a formula to be rigidly adhered to. It is a suggested approach that can be adapted to fit the needs of any nonprofit and the peculiarities of each situation. Fundraising is an art as well as a science. You must bring your own creativity to it and remain flexible.

FINANCIAL CONTROLS AND REPORTING

A long-term recovery organization/committee must assure its constituency of the responsible use of donated resources. Effective financial management and controls make it difficult or impossible for organizational funds to be used improperly and helps ensure regular and accurate reporting. Financial controls and systems are one of the first things a new entity should consider and implement; an identified process for receiving funds, disbursing funds, and reporting the use of funds will help guarantee donated dollars and materials. Key considerations:

1. Money-Handling Guidelines and Policies Form the Base

The Board/council should establish guidelines and policies addressing processes for deposits, spending authorities and limits, and check writing. Recommended policies include:

- Incoming-funds should be independently seen, recorded, banked, and accounted for by two or more persons.
- Someone other than the person who opens mail should compare each incoming check with issued receipts and with deposit paperwork.
- Expenditures should be approved by someone other than the person who signs checks.
- Someone other than the person who issues checks should do the monthly bank statement reconciliation.
- At least two signatures should be required on all checks.
- Checks should not be signed “ahead” by one or more of the signatures’.

2. Quality Reporting Supports Decision-making

- A Balance Sheet presenting the organization's assets and liabilities should be produced at least quarterly.
- A monthly Statement of Income and Expenses, with line item detail of project/program income and expenses, should compare the current period's fiscal performance and the year-to-date income and expense performance to the annual budget.
- In addition to demonstrating a level of leadership and vision, a simple analysis of budget variances (i.e. "why did we over- or under-spend in a particular area?") are helpful in keeping an organization on track and for future programmatic decision-making. Financial reports should present information in the same format in each reporting period.
- A written Budget should be developed as early as possible and, depending on the duration of the recovery, updated at least annually to give meaning to revenue and expense reports. Line item budgets designating expense projections that cannot be exceeded without board approval, help assure that organizational funds are not used for purposes other than authorized, and that spending stays within projected amounts.

3. The Audit Process as a Fundamental of Financial Management

- In the organizing stages, a recovery group should look to the community for a CPA (or professional bookkeeper) willing to serve as a consultant to the Board. An unbiased, trained set of eyes reviewing financial controls and procedures on a regular basis (perhaps as often as quarterly) during the formative stages of the organization may help ensure that a solid money-handling and reporting system avoids problems. Your CPA consultant may be willing donate audit services for the annual audit.
- Audits by certified public accountants assure the Board (who has ultimate responsibility) and donors that an organization has adequate controls, but an annual audit may be too late if proper controls have not been implemented early on.

4. Reporting to Donors and Contributors

- Reporting to donors and contributors is hard work that goes beyond the "asking" to include: 1) reporting the use of donated funds and goods; 2) interpreting that use in terms of the numbers of families assisted, the nature of the assistance provided that if not provided would have deterred reasonable recovery for the recipient, and on-going identification of emerging needs.
- Some donor organizations designate funds and/or require written or electronic reports at particular stages of expenditure. These requirements should be met in a timely manner.
- All donors or their representatives should receive regular reports (i.e. updates on emerging victim/survivor needs, funding needs, and monthly financial reports).
- All financial donors of substance should receive copies of annual audits, and a comprehensive closing report of finances and assistance programs.

5. Other Tips and Controls for Consideration

DISASTER GRANTS & TOOLS

- A recovery group (Interfaith, Long-Term Recovery Organization, or a Long-Term Recovery Committee) receiving large quantities of in-kind material or equipment donations for its own use or redistribution should develop and implement a system of secure files for legal documents proving ownership and inventory.
- Train board members and staff on the financial management system in order to assure their understanding of the financial reports. The judiciary liability belongs to the Board!
- Staff may be able to better manage program budgets and project their casework needs if there is a transparent sharing of financial reports.
- Establish policies on retention of financial records in keeping with IRS and grantor's requirements.

ELEMENTS/HIGHLIGHTS OF ADMINISTRATION AS A NONPROFIT

Any organization that solicits funds must be registered with the Secretary of State. If they anticipate raising several thousand dollars in goods, services or contributions in a calendar year, they must pay a fee to the Business Incorporation division of the Secretary of State and a fee to the Charities Division. What you should know about this is:

- You may not have to be a tax-exempt organization to solicit funds in certain states. Tax exempt is a federal tax opportunity for individuals and corporations who donate goods, services and money.
- The Secretary of State's Office may choose to expedite requests to form organizations addressing disaster related issues.
- There may be a required financial audit if you receive more than $100,000 in contributed income in a year. Check with your State to make sure you budget for this.

If you are not a 501©(3) as registered with the Internal Revenue Service, it will be very difficult to get grants to support your strategic vision. One way to address this is to work with another similar organization that is a tax-exempt group. This is called a fiscal agent relationship. Make sure it's an organization with a similar focus or mission. You should know that:

- Foundations typically require a tax-exempt 501©(3) letter from the IRS
- The IRS may expedite disaster related requests to form a nonprofit organization.
- There may be no financial audit requirement when filing your 990 forms (the end of year "tax information" form filed by any nonprofit whose budget exceeds $25,000) again check with your State.

Keep track of all time sheets for paid and, if not too onerous, volunteer workers: save all receipts to show that what you spent money on can be tracked every month, put internal controls into place to prevent fraud and capture stories about your efforts in writing and pictures. You need to show that the contributed money you received agrees with what you told the group/person who gave you the money you would spend it on.

DISASTER GRANTS & TOOLS

Internal controls are systems that prevent one person from having all control over the income and expenditures. One tip to address this is that the bank statements are sent to the treasurer's house/work address and he or she can sign the checks. The board president can sign checks but not write them. A staff person or designated board member can write the checks and reconcile the bank statements but cannot sign checks. Make sure that the person who is gathering money, writing checks, paying bills, reconciling bank statements and creating reports is not all the same person.

The board of an organization is ultimately responsible for all operations of that organization. Make sure you have good reporting systems in place that inform them in terms of financial information (budget at the beginning of the year, balance sheet each meeting and budgeted items vs. actual items), activities for a particular period (in report forms) and minutes from any board meetings.

GRANT PROPOSAL PROCESS

Create you Need/Case Statement. The Need Statement (also known as the Case Statement) is the who, what, when, where and why of your funding proposal. Be prepared to discuss your community in demographic terms (race, gender, age, geographic place), your organization (descriptions about staff and their ability and the board of directors and who they represent), your constituents (those that you serve directly...especially in terms of what you are requesting the money to do), the needs of your constituents and why this need is important enough for someone to give you lots of money to create strategies to address this need. The needs assessment analyzes the extent of the problem and the conditions you wish to change. The statement of the problem or need is a representation of the reason for your proposal.

Establish Goals and Objectives. That Support the Need. Goals and Objectives support the Need or Case Statement and provide the guide to reach the mission of your organization. Goals are broad statements that look at the desired changes you want to see happen. It is recommended that you state just one or two goals in your application. Objectives take the goals and break them down into smaller parts that tell the person giving you money what you will do in terms of dates and measurable items. Program objectives specify the outcomes of your project the end product and can be evaluated. Process objectives are also measurable and are written to assure that the program objectives are carried out.

Develop Methods of Achieving Your Obstacles. This is something like a checklist that comes from looking at your objectives. For example, if your goal is to increase rental and home-owner properties an objective might be to build 500 home by September, 2012. Some of the methods to do this might include hiring a contractor to design homes, purchase or get donated materials, recruit volunteers to build the homes. Activities (methods) in a section of your application which will explain in detail how you are going to achieve the outcomes.

Evaluate Your Success. This is simply taking the objectives and examining them to see whether you did what you set out to do. If you are going to build 500 homes, how will you know you did it? Well, in this case, by keeping track on paper of the homes built. It gives you the opportunity to say yes or no to the objectives.

Create the Budget. It is important that you present a detailed budget which will express the objectives and methods in financial terms. So if you need to hire the contractor, how much will he cost? If you purchase materials, what do they cost? Are there costs associated with volunteers building the homes?

Having a good quality Strategic and/or Action plan is VERY helpful in writing grant proposals. It tells the funder that you have a vision and that this request will support that vision. It gives credibility to your organization and provides a road map so that when funding opportunities come up, you are prepared to match the money needs with the needs of the people who you are trying to serve.

GATHERING BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The first thing you will need to do in writing the master proposal is to gather the documentation for it. You will require background documentation in three areas: concept, program, and expenses. If all of this information is not readily available to you, determine who will help you gather each type of information. If you are part of a small nonprofit with no staff, a knowledgeable board member will be the logical choice. If you are in a larger agency, there should be program and financial support staff who can help you. Once you know with whom to talk, identify the questions to ask. This data-gathering process makes the actual writing much easier. And by involving other stakeholders in the process, it also helps key people within your agency seriously consider the project's value to the organization.

Concept

It is important that you have a good sense of how the project fits into the philosophy and mission of your agency. The need that the proposal is addressing must also be documented. These concepts must be well-articulated in the proposal. Funders want to know that a project reinforces the overall direction of an organization, and they may need to be convinced that the case for the project is compelling. You should collect background data on your organization and on the need to be addressed so that your arguments are well-documented.

Program

Here is a check list of the program information you require:

- the nature of the project and how it will be conducted;
- the timetable for the project;
- the anticipated outcomes and how best to evaluate the results; and
- staffing and volunteer needs, including deployment of existing staff and new hires.

Expenses

You will not be able to pin down all the expenses associated with the project until the program details and timing have been worked out. Thus, the main financial data gathering takes place after the narrative part of the master proposal has been written. However, at this stage you do need to sketch out the broad outlines of the budget to be sure that the costs are in reasonable proportion to the outcomes you anticipate. If it appears that the costs will be prohibitive, even with a foundation grant, you should then scale back your plans or adjust them to remove the least cost-effective expenditures.

THE EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

This first page of the proposal is the most important section of the entire document. Here you will provide the reader with a snapshot of what is to follow. Specifically, it summarizes all of the key information and is a sales document designed to convince the reader that this project should be considered for support. Be certain to include:

Problem — a brief statement of the problem or need your agency has recognized and is prepared to address (one or two paragraphs);

Solution — a short description of the project, including what will take place and how many people will benefit from the program, how and where it will operate, for how long, and who will staff it (one or two paragraphs);

Funding requirements— an explanation of the amount of grant money required for the project and what your plans are for funding it in the future (one paragraph); and

Organization and its expertise— a brief statement of the name, history, purpose, and activities of your agency, emphasizing its capacity to carry out this proposal (one paragraph).

THE STATEMENT OF NEED

If the funder reads beyond the executive summary, you have successfully piqued his or her interest. Your next task is to build on this initial interest in your project by enabling the funder to understand the problem that the project will remedy.

The statement of need will enable the reader to learn more about the issues. It presents the facts and evidence that support the need for the project and establishes that your nonprofit understands the problems and therefore can reasonably address them. The information used to support the case can come from authorities in the field, as well as from your agency's own experience.

You want the need section to be succinct, yet persuasive. Like a good debater, you must assemble all the arguments. Then present them in a logical sequence that will readily convince the reader of their importance. As you marshal your arguments, consider the following six points.

First, decide which facts or statistics best support the project. Be sure the data you present are accurate. There are few things more embarrassing than to have the funder tell you that your information is out of date or incorrect. Information that is too generic or broad will not help you develop a winning argument for your project. Information that does not relate to your organization or the project you are presenting will cause the funder to question the entire proposal. There also should be a balance between the information presented and the scale of the program.

Second, give the reader hope. The picture you paint should not be so grim that the solution appears hopeless. The funder will wonder whether an investment in a solution will be worthwhile. Here's an example of a solid statement of need: "Breast cancer kills. But statistics prove that regular check-ups catch most breast cancer in the early stages, reducing the likelihood of death. Hence, a program to encourage preventive check-ups will reduce the risk of death due to breast cancer." Avoid overstatement and overly emotional appeals.

Third, decide if you want to put your project forward as a model. This could expand the base of potential funders, but serving as a model works only for certain types of projects. Don't try to make this argument if it doesn't really fit. Funders may well expect your agency to follow through with a replication plan if you present your project as a model.

If the decision about a model is affirmative, you should document how the problem you are addressing occurs in other communities. Be sure to explain how your solution could be a solution for others as well.

Fourth, determine whether it is reasonable to portray the need as acute. You are asking the funder to pay more attention to your proposal because either the problem you address is worse than others or the solution you propose makes more sense than others. Here is an example of a balanced but weighty statement: "Drug abuse is a national problem. Each day, children all over the country die from drug overdose. In the South Bronx the problem is worse. More children die here than any place else. It is an epidemic. Hence, our drug prevention program is needed more in the South Bronx than in any other part of the city."

Fifth, decide whether you can demonstrate that your program addresses the need differently or better than other projects that preceded it. It is often difficult to describe the need for your project without being critical of the competition. But you must be careful not to do so. Being critical of other nonprofits will not be well received by the funder. It may cause the funder to look more carefully at your own project to see why you felt you had to build your case by demeaning others. The funder may have invested in these other projects or may begin to consider them, now that you have brought them to their attention.

If possible, you should make it clear that you are cognizant of, and on good terms with, others doing work in your field. Keep in mind that today's funders are very interested in collaboration. They may even ask why you are not collaborating with those you view as key competitors. So at the least you need to describe how your work complements, but does not duplicate, the work of others.

Sixth, avoid circular reasoning. In circular reasoning, you present the absence of your solution as the actual problem. Then your solution is offered as the way to solve the problem. For example, the circular reasoning for building a community swimming pool might go like this: "The problem is that we have no pool in our community. Building a pool will solve the problem." A more persuasive case would cite what a pool has meant to a neighboring community, permitting it to offer recreation, exercise, and physical therapy programs. The statement might refer to a survey that underscores the target audience's planned usage of the facility and conclude with the connection between the proposed usage and potential benefits to enhance life in the community.

The statement of need does not have to be long and involved. Short, concise information captures the reader's attention.

This section of your proposal should have five subsections: objectives, methods, staffing/administration, evaluation, and sustainability. Together, objectives and methods dictate staffing and administrative requirements. They then become the focus of the evaluation to assess the results of the project. The project's sustainability flows directly from its success, hence its ability to attract other support. Taken together, the five subsections present an interlocking picture of the total project.

Objectives

Objectives are the measurable outcomes of the program. They define your methods. Your objectives must be tangible, specific, concrete, measurable, and achievable in a specified time period. Grantseekers often confuse objectives with goals, which are conceptual and more abstract. For the purpose of illustration, here is the goal of a project with a subsidiary objective:

Goal: Our after-school program will help children read better.

Objective: Our after-school remedial education program will assist 50 children in improving their reading scores by one grade level as demonstrated on standardized reading tests administered after participating in the program for six months.

The goal in this case is abstract: improving reading, while the objective is much more specific. It is achievable in the short term (six months) and measurable (improving 50 children's reading scores by one grade level). With competition for dollars so great, well-articulated objectives are increasingly critical to a proposal's success.

Using a different example, there are at least four types of objectives:

1. Behavioral — A human action is anticipated. Example: Fifty of the 70 children participating will learn to swim.
2. Performance — A specific time frame within which a behavior will occur, at an expected proficiency level, is expected. Example: Fifty of the 70 children will learn to swim within six months and will pass a basic swimming proficiency test administered by a Red Cross-certified lifeguard.
3. Process — the manner in which something occurs is an end in itself. Example: We will document the teaching methods utilized, identifying those with the greatest success.
4. Product — A tangible item results. Example: A manual will be created to be used in teaching swimming to this age and proficiency group in the future.

In any given proposal, you will find yourself setting forth one or more of these types of objectives, depending on the nature of your project. Be certain to present the objectives very clearly. Make sure that they do not become lost in verbiage and that they stand out on the page. You might, for example, use numbers, bullets, or indentations to denote the objectives in the text. Above all, be realistic in setting objectives. Don't promise what you can't deliver. Remember, the funder will want to be told in the final report that the project actually accomplished these objectives.

Methods

By means of the objectives, you have explained to the funder what will be achieved by the project. The methods section describes the specific activities that will take place to achieve the objectives. It might be helpful to divide our discussion of methods into the following: how, when, and why.

How: This is the detailed description of what will occur from the time the project begins until it is completed. Your methods should match the previously stated objectives.

When: The methods section should present the order and timing for the tasks. It might make sense to provide a timetable so that the reader does not have to map out the sequencing on his or her own....The timetable tells the reader "when" and provides another summary of the project that supports the rest of the methods section.

Why: You may need to defend your chosen methods, especially if they are new or unorthodox. Why will the planned work lead to the outcomes you anticipate? You can answer this question in a number of ways, including using expert testimony and examples of other projects that work.

The methods section enables the reader to visualize the implementation of the project. It should convince the reader that your agency knows what it is doing, thereby establishing its credibility.

Staffing/Administration

In describing the methods, you will have mentioned staffing for the project. You now need to devote a few sentences to discussing the number of staff, their qualifications, and specific assignments. Details about individual staff members involved in the project can be included either as part of this section or in the appendix, depending on the length and importance of this information.

"Staffing" may refer to volunteers or to consultants, as well as to paid staff. Most proposal writers do not develop staffing sections for projects that are primarily volunteer run. Describing tasks that volunteers will undertake, however, can be most helpful to the proposal reader. Such information underscores the value added by the volunteers as well as the cost-effectiveness of the project.

For a project with paid staff, be certain to describe which staff will work full time and which will work part time on the project. Identify staff already employed by your nonprofit and those to be recruited specifically for the project. How will you free up the time of an already fully deployed individual?

Salary and project costs are affected by the qualifications of the staff. Delineate the practical experience you require for key staff, as well as level of expertise and educational background. If an individual has already been selected to direct the program, summarize his or her credentials and include a brief biographical sketch in the appendix. A strong project director can help influence a grant decision.

Describe for the reader your plans for administering the project. This is especially important in a large operation, if more than one agency is collaborating on the project, or if you are using a fiscal agent. It needs to be crystal clear who is responsible for financial management, project outcomes, and reporting.

Evaluation

An evaluation plan should not be considered only after the project is over; it should be built into the project. Including an evaluation plan in your proposal indicates that you take your objectives seriously and want to know how well you have achieved them. Evaluation is also a sound management tool. Like strategic planning, it helps a nonprofit refine and improve its program. An evaluation can often be the best means for others to learn from your experience in conducting the project.

There are two types of formal evaluation. One measures the product; the other analyzes the process. Either or both might be appropriate to your project. The approach you choose will depend on the nature of the project and its objectives. For either type, you will need to describe the manner in which evaluation information will be collected and how the data will be analyzed. You should present your plan for how the evaluation and its results will be reported and the audience to which it will be directed. For example, it might be used internally or be shared with the funder, or it might deserve a wider audience. A funder might even have an opinion about the scope of this dissemination.

Sustainability

A clear message from grantmakers today is that grantseekers will be expected to demonstrate in very concrete ways the long-term financial viability of the project to be funded and of the nonprofit organization itself.

It stands to reason that most grantmakers will not want to take on a permanent funding commitment to a particular agency. Rather, funders will want you to prove either that your project is finite (with start-up and ending dates); or that it is capacity-building (that it will contribute to the future self-sufficiency of your agency and/or enable it to expand services that might be revenue generating); or that it will make your organization attractive to other funders in the future. With the new trend toward adopting some of the investment principles of venture capital groups to the practice of philanthropy, evidence of fiscal sustainability becomes a highly sought-after characteristic of the successful grant proposal.

It behooves you to be very specific about current and projected funding streams, both earned income and fundraised, and about the base of financial support for your nonprofit. Here is an area where it is important to have backup figures and prognostications at the ready, in case a prospective funder asks for these, even though you are unlikely to include this information in the actual grant proposal. Some grantmakers, of course, will want to know who else will be receiving a copy of this same proposal. You should not be shy about sharing this information with the funder.

THE BUDGET

The budget for your proposal may be as simple as a one-page statement of projected expenses. Or your proposal may require a more complex presentation, perhaps including a page on projected support and revenue and notes explaining various items of expense or of revenue.

Expense Budget

As you prepare to assemble the budget, go back through the proposal narrative and make a list of all personnel and non-personnel items related to the operation of the project. Be sure that you list not only new costs that will be incurred if the project is funded but also any ongoing expenses for items that will be allocated to the project. Then get the relevant costs from the person in your agency that is responsible for keeping the books. You may need to estimate the proportions of your agency's ongoing expenses that should be charged to the project and any new costs, such as salaries for project personnel not yet hired. Put the costs you have identified next to each item on your list.

Your list of budget items and the calculations you have done to arrive at a dollar figure for each item should be summarized on worksheets. You should keep these to remind yourself how the numbers were developed. These worksheets can be useful as you continue to develop the proposal and discuss it with funders; they are also a valuable tool for monitoring the project once it is under way and for reporting after completion of the grant.

A portion of a worksheet for a year-long project might look like this:

| Item               | Description                                   | Cost  |
|--------------------|---|---|
| Executive director | Supervision                                   | 10% of salary = $10,00025% benefits = $ 2,500         |
| Project director   | Hired in month one                            | 11 months at $35,000 = $32,08325% benefits = $ 8,025 |
| Tutors             | 12 working 10 hours per week for three months | 12 x 10 x 13 x $ 4.50 = $ 7,020                           |
| Office space       | Requires 25% of current space                 | 25% x $20,000 = $ 5,000                                   |
| Overhead           | 20% of project cost                           | 20% x $64,628 = $12,926                                   |

With your worksheets in hand, you are ready to prepare the expense budget. For most projects, costs should be grouped into subcategories, selected to reflect the critical areas of expense. All significant costs should be broken out within the subcategories, but small ones can be combined on one line. You might divide your expense budget into personnel and non-personnel costs; your personnel subcategories might include salaries, benefits, and consultants. Subcategories under non-personnel costs might include travel, equipment, and printing, for example, with a dollar figure attached to each line.

Support and Revenue and Statement

For the typical project, no support and revenue statement is necessary. The expense budget represents the amount of grant support required. But if grant support has already been awarded to the project, or if you expect project activities to generate income, a support and revenue statement is the place to provide this information.

In itemizing grant support, make note of any earmarked grants; this will suggest how new grants may be allocated. The total grant support already committed should then be deducted from the "Total Expenses" line on the expense budget to give you the "Amount to Be Raised" or the "Balance Requested."

Any earned income anticipated should be estimated on the support and revenue statement. For instance, if you expect 50 people to attend your performance on each of the four nights, it is given at $10 a ticket, and if you hope that 20 of them will buy the $5 souvenir book each night, you would show two lines of income, "Ticket Sales" at $2,000 and "Souvenir Book Sales" at $400. As with the expense budget, you should keep backup worksheets for the support and revenue statement to remind yourself of the assumptions you have made.

Budget Narrative

A narrative portion of the budget is used to explain any unusual line items in the budget and is not always needed. If costs are straightforward and the numbers tell the story clearly, explanations are redundant.

If you decide a budget narrative is needed, you can structure it in one of two ways. You can create "Notes to the Budget," with footnote-style numbers on the line items in the budget keyed to numbered explanations. If an extensive or more general explanation is required, you can structure the budget narrative as straight text. Remember though, the basic narrative about the project and your organization belongs elsewhere in the proposal, not in the budget narrative.

Organizational Information

Normally a resume of your nonprofit organization should come at the end of your proposal. Your natural inclination may be to put this information up front in the document. But it is usually better to sell the need for your project and then your agency's ability to carry it out.

---

It is not necessary to overwhelm the reader with facts about your organization. This information can be conveyed easily by attaching a brochure or other prepared statement. In two pages or less, tell the reader when your nonprofit came into existence; state its mission, being certain to demonstrate how the subject of the proposal fits within or extends that mission; and describe the organization's structure, programs, and special expertise.

Discuss the size of the board, how board members are recruited, and their level of participation. Give the reader a feel for the makeup of the board. (You should include the full board list in an appendix.) If your agency is composed of volunteers or has an active volunteer group, describe the function that the volunteers fill. Provide details on the staff, including the numbers of full and part-time staff, and their levels of expertise.

Describe the kinds of activities in which your staff engage. Explain briefly the assistance you provide. Describe the audience you serve, any special or unusual needs they face, and why they rely on your agency. Cite the number of people who are reached through your programs.

Tying all of the information about your nonprofit together, cite your agency's expertise, especially as it relates to the subject of your proposal.

LETTER PROPOSAL

Sometimes the scale of the project might suggest a small-scale letter format proposal, or the type of request might not require all of the proposal components or the components in the sequence recommended here. The guidelines and policies of individual funders will be your ultimate guide. Many funders today state that they prefer a brief letter proposal; others require that you complete an application form. In any case, you will want to refer to the basic proposal components as provided here to be sure that you have not omitted an element that will support your case. As noted, the scale of the project will often determine whether it requires a letter or the longer proposal format. For example, a request to purchase a $1,000 fax machine for your agency simply does not lend itself to a lengthy narrative. A small contribution to your agency's annual operating budget, particularly if it is a renewal of past support, might also warrant a letter rather than a full-scale proposal.

What are the elements of a letter request? For the most part, they should follow the format of a full proposal, except with regard to length. The letter should be no more than three pages. You will need to call upon your writing skills because it can be very hard to get all of the necessary details into a concise, well-articulated letter.

As to the flow of information, follow these steps while keeping in mind that you are writing a letter to someone. It should not be as formal in style as a longer proposal would be. It may be necessary to change the sequence of the text to achieve the correct tone and the right flow of information.

Here are the components of a good letter proposal:

- Ask for the gift: The letter should begin with a reference to your prior contact with the funder, if any. State why you are writing and how much funding is required from the particular foundation.
- Describe the need: In a much abbreviated manner, tells the funder why there is a need for this project, piece of equipment, etc.
- Explain what you will do: Just as you would in a fuller proposal, provide enough detail to pique the funder's interest. Describe precisely what will take place as a result of the grant.
- Provide agency data: Help the funder know a bit more about your organization by including your mission statement, brief description of programs offered, number of people served, and staff, volunteer, and board data, if appropriate.
- Include appropriate budget data: Even a letter request may have a budget that is a half-page long. Decide if this information should be incorporated into the letter or in a separate attachment. Whichever course you choose, be sure to indicate the total cost of the project. Discuss future funding only if the absence of this information will raise questions.
- Close: As with the longer proposal, a letter proposal needs a strong concluding statement.
- Attach any additional information required: The funder may need much of the same information to back up a small request as a large one: a board list, a copy of your IRS determination letter, financial documentation, and brief resumes of key staff.

It may take as much thought and data gathering to write a good letter request as it does to prepare a full proposal (and sometimes even more). Don't assume that because it is only a letter, it isn't a time-consuming and challenging task. Every document you put in front of a funder says something about your agency. Each step you take with a funder should build a relationship for the future.

Every proposal should have a concluding paragraph or two. This is a good place to call attention to the future, after the grant is completed. If appropriate, you should outline some of the follow-up activities that might be undertaken to begin to prepare your funders for your next request. Alternatively, you should state how the project might carry on without further grant support.

This section is also the place to make a final appeal for your project. Briefly reiterate what your nonprofit wants to do and why it is important. Underscore why your agency needs funding to accomplish it. Don't be afraid at this stage to use a bit of emotion to solidify your case.

What Happens Next?

Submitting your proposal is nowhere near the end of your involvement in the grantmaking process. Grant review procedures vary widely, and the decision-making process can take anywhere from a few weeks to six months or more. During the review process, the funder may ask for additional information either directly from you or from outside consultants or professional references. Invariably, this is a difficult time for the grantseeker. You need to be patient but persistent. Some grantmakers outline their review procedures in annual reports or application guidelines. If you are unclear about the process, don't hesitate to ask.

If your hard work results in a grant, take a few moments to acknowledge the funder's support with a letter of thanks. You also need to find out whether the funder has specific forms, procedures, and deadlines for reporting the progress of your project. Clarifying your responsibilities as a grantee at the outset, particularly with respect to financial reporting, will prevent misunderstandings and more serious problems later.

Nor is rejection necessarily the end of the process. If you're unsure why your proposal was rejected, ask. Did the funder need additional information? Would they be interested in considering the proposal at a future date? Now might also be the time to begin cultivation of a prospective funder. Put them on your mailing list so that they can become further acquainted with your organization. Remember, there's always next year.

Curso breve para escribir propuestas

Introducción

El tema de este curso breve es cómo escribir una propuesta. Pero la propuesta no se mantiene por sí sola; debe formar parte del proceso de planificación e investigación, de reclutamiento y de cultivar a posibles fundaciones y donantes corporativos.

Este proceso está basado en la convicción de que debe desarrollarse una colaboración entre la organización y la fundación donante. Cuando ha pasado gran parte de su tiempo en la búsqueda de fondos, es difícil recordar que también puede ser difícil donar dinero. Es más, el dinero contribuido por una fundación o corporación no tiene valor hasta que se asigne a los programas sólidos en el sector no lucrativo.

Esto se considera una colaboración ideal. Las organizaciones tienen las ideas y la capacidad para resolver problemas, pero no el dinero con el cual implementarlas. Las fundaciones y corporaciones pueden tener los recursos financieros, pero no necesariamente los otros recursos necesarios para crear programas. Integre efectivamente los dos y el resultado será una colaboración dinámica.

Debe seguir un proceso paso a paso en la búsqueda de fondos privados. Toma tiempo y persistencia para tener éxito. Después de que haya escrito la propuesta, puede pasar un año o más para obtener los fondos necesarios para llevar a cabo su proyecto. Aun una propuesta perfectamente escrita, presentada a la posible fundación donante, puede ser rechazada por varias razones.

Recaudar fondos es una inversión hacia el futuro. Su objetivo debe ser crear una red de fundaciones y otros contribuidores, muchos de los cuales otorgan donaciones pequeñas de manera constante, y algunos pocos que brindan donaciones grandes y periódicas. Al perseverar en cumplir estos pasos del proceso, cada año usted puede retener a la mayoría de sus contribuidores regulares y encontrar el equilibrio con las idas y venidas de los donantes financieros más grandes.

El proceso recomendado no es una fórmula estricta por la que se debe regir. Es sólo una sugerencia de enfoque que se puede adaptar para ayudar con las necesidades de la organización y las exigencias particulares de cada situación. Recaudar fondos es un arte, no una ciencia. Usted debe contar con su propia creatividad y ser flexible.

Recopilación de información

El punto de partida para escribir una propuesta consiste en reunir la documentación adecuada. Para esto es importante recopilar antecedentes en tres sectores: concepto, programa y presupuesto.

Si esta documentación no está disponible, deberá elegir a la persona o equipo responsable de llevar a cabo dicha recopilación. Si usted es miembro de una pequeña organización sin fines de lucro que no cuenta con este tipo de apoyo, lo más fácil sería elegir a un miembro de su junta directiva. Si por el contrario, usted trabaja para una organización grande, es muy probable que haya personal capacitado que pueda brindarle el apoyo necesario en el área de desarrollo de proyectos y ejecución presupuestal. Una vez que sepa a quién le va a asignar esta responsabilidad, identifique todas las preguntas posibles que le ayudarán a desarrollar el proceso de documentación.

Este proceso permite que la redacción de la propuesta sea mucho más fácil y además, si incluye a otros miembros de la organización o de la junta directiva logrará que el proyecto se convierta en un trabajo de equipo, en el que se incorporarán otras personas de la institución y reconocerán su importancia.

Concepto

No sólo es importante que usted comprenda cómo encaja el proyecto dentro de la filosofía y misión de la organización, sino que además deberá contar con la documentación que responda a las necesidades identificadas. Es importante que estos conceptos de filosofía estén claramente expresados en la propuesta. Para las fundaciones es importante saber si el proyecto apoya el objetivo general de la organización y de esta manera, evaluar si vale la pena ser considerado. Con este fin, será necesario reunir datos precisos acerca de su organización y conocer exactamente las necesidades a las cuales su proyecto responderá. Esto le ayuda a fortalecer sus argumentos y contribuye al desarrollo de una propuesta sólida.

Programa

La siguiente es la lista de control de la información necesaria sobre el programa:

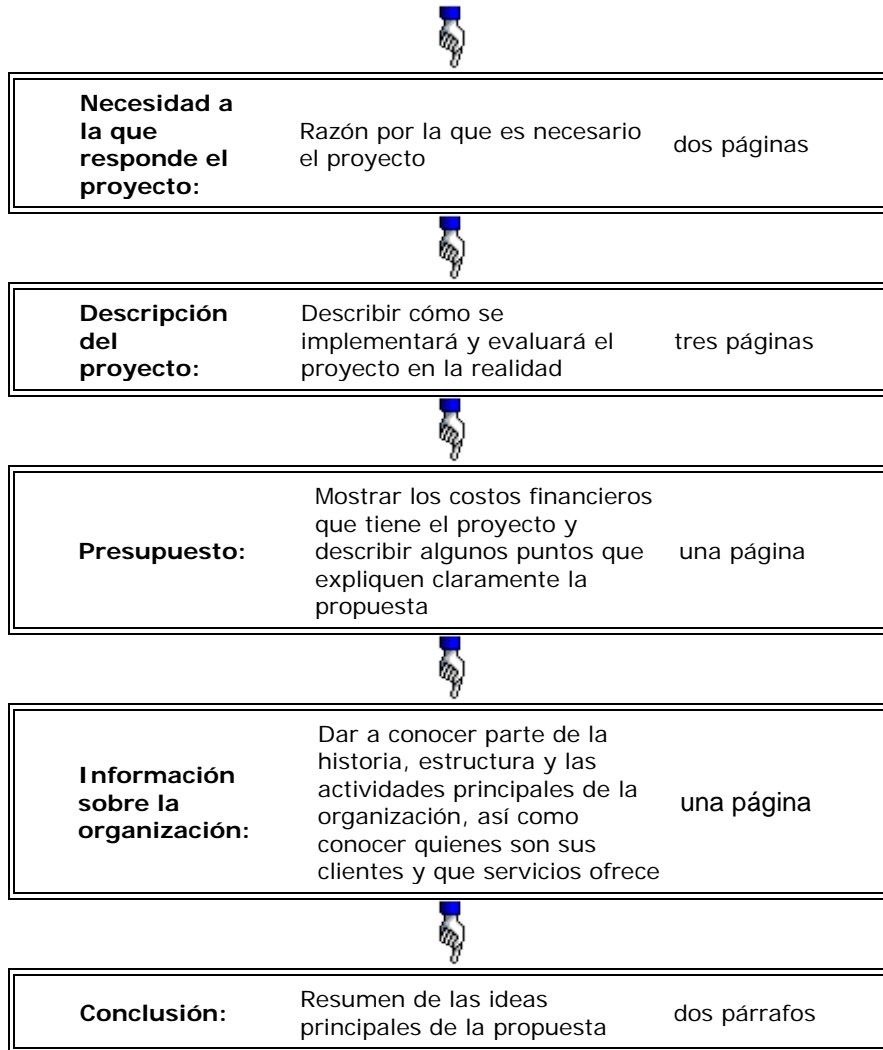

- Naturaleza del proyecto y método para ponerlo en práctica;
- Cronología del proyecto;
- Resultados esperados y método de su evaluación; y
- Requisitos de personal y voluntarios, incluyendo empleados actuales y nuevos.

Presupuesto

Una vez que haya definido el contenido del proyecto y establecido un plan de trabajo, podrá elaborar un presupuesto inicial que le indique con exactitud cuáles podrían ser los costos del proyecto. Por esta razón, se recomienda primero definir las necesidades y establecer las metas y alcances del proyecto, antes de preparar la parte financiera. Sin embargo, se aconseja hacer un bosquejo preliminar del presupuesto para cerciorarse de que haya una relación razonable entre costos y resultados anticipados. Si considera que los costos son muy altos, aun sabiendo que este presupuesto podrá ser financiado por una fundación, usted deberá replantearlo y reducir costos innecesarios.

Componentes principales para la elaboración de una propuesta

|                 |  |            |
|-----------------|--|------------|
| Resumen: | Presentación de la idea principal del proyecto y resumen de la propuesta | una página |

Resumen ejecutivo

La primera página de la propuesta es la sección más importante de todo el documento. En ella, usted le proporciona al lector un resumen del mismo. Específicamente, es una síntesis de la información más relevante que ayuda a convencer al lector de que este proyecto sea considerado para su apoyo. Debe incluir:

El problema - Uno o dos párrafos breves sobre el problema o la necesidad que su organización ha identificado y que está preparada para enfrentar.

La solución - Una descripción breve, que no sobrepase dos párrafos, sobre el proyecto, que incluya: sus actividades, la cantidad de personas que se beneficiarán de este programa, cómo y dónde operará, por cuánto tiempo y el personal que lo implementará.

Los fondos requeridos- Una explicación breve, de un párrafo, sobre la cantidad de dinero requerido para la operación del proyecto y cuáles son sus planes para recaudar fondos en el futuro.

Una reseña sobre la experiencia de su organización- Escriba en un párrafo el nombre, la historia, la misión y las actividades de su organización, así como la capacidad que ésta tiene para llevar a cabo el proyecto.

Plantee la necesidad del proyecto

Si después de leer el resumen, la fundación donante continúa leyendo, ya despertó su interés. El próximo paso será reforzar este interés inicial describiendo el problema y cómo el proyecto podrá remediarlo.

El planteamiento de la necesidad le permitirá al lector conocer más a fondo los temas tratados. Presenta hechos y pruebas para apoyar la necesidad de desarrollar el proyecto, y establece que su organización sin fines de lucro entiende los problemas y los puede resolver de una manera razonable. La información utilizada para apoyar su caso puede provenir de expertos en el tema y de las propias experiencias de la organización.

La sección correspondiente al planteamiento de necesidad debe ser concisa aunque persuasiva. Para expresar sus buenas ideas, usted tiene que organizar primero todos los argumentos y después presentarlos en una secuencia lógica que convenza al lector de la importancia de abordar este proyecto. Para organizar sus argumentos, es importante que considere los seis puntos siguientes:

Primero, decida qué realidades o estadísticas apoyan mejor al proyecto. Asegúrese de que los datos que presente sean correctos. No hay nada tan penoso como una fundación donante que diga que la información es incorrecta o que está desactualizada. La información genérica o muy extensa no le ayudará a presentar un argumento triunfador para el proyecto. La información que no esté relacionada con su organización o con el proyecto, dará lugar a que la fundación donante cuestione la propuesta. Por lo tanto, es importante que exista un balance entre la información presentada y la capacidad del programa para desarrollar el proyecto.

Segundo, al lector hay que darle esperanzas. La imagen que usted presente sobre la situación no debe ser tan crítica como para que parezca que la situación no tiene solución. La fundación donante dudará si vale la pena invertir en una solución. He aquí un ejemplo contundente sobre el planteamiento de una necesidad: "El cáncer de seno mata. Sin embargo, las estadísticas demuestran que las revisiones periódicas pueden detectar los síntomas de cáncer en sus fases iniciales, reduciendo considerablemente la posibilidad de muertes por causa de esta enfermedad. Es así como un programa que promueva las visitas periódicas al médico puede ayudar a reducir el riesgo de morir a causa de cáncer de seno." Evite exageraciones o explicaciones muy emocionales.

Tercero, decida si quiere que su proyecto sirva de modelo. Esto ayudaría a ampliar la base de posibles fundaciones donantes. Recuerde que un modelo funciona solamente en ciertos tipos de proyectos. No trate de desarrollar un argumento alrededor de esta idea si verdaderamente no cabe dentro del proyecto. Las fundaciones donantes esperarán que su organización siga con un plan similar si lo presenta como un proyecto modelo.

Si decide hacer un modelo de este proyecto, debe documentarse sobre cómo este problema que está enfrentando ocurre en otras comunidades. Asegúrese de explicar cómo la solución que plantee puede servir también para otros.

Cuarto, determine hasta qué punto es prudente mostrar que la necesidad que usted tiene es realmente grave. Usted le está pidiendo a la fundación donante que se interese en su propuesta ya sea porque el problema que usted plantea es más grave que los otros, o la solución que propone tiene mejor sentido y es más viable que otras. He aquí un ejemplo de un escrito contundente pero equilibrado: "El abuso de drogas es un problema nacional. Cada día mueren niños en todo el país a causa de una dosis excesiva. En el Sur del Bronx, el problema es más crítico. Más niños mueren aquí que en cualquier otro lugar, es como una epidemia. Es por esta razón, que nuestro programa de prevención es más necesario en el Sur del Bronx que en cualquier otra parte de la ciudad."

Quinto, decida si puede demostrar que su programa integra las necesidades de una manera diferente, o está mejor estructurado que otros proyectos que lo han precedido. Es muy difícil describir la necesidad de su proyecto sin ser crítico con otras organizaciones con las cuales está compitiendo por los mismos recursos. En este caso, usted debe ser muy cuidadoso de no hacer esto. Criticar a otras organizaciones no está bien visto por las fundaciones donantes. Podría motivar al posible contribuidor a mirar más de cerca su proyecto e investigar por qué lo presentó desprestigiando a otras organizaciones. La fundación donante puede haber invertido dinero en los proyectos de estas organizaciones o haber comenzado a considerarlos viables para su apoyo, ahora que usted se los ha hecho notar.

Es mejor que aclare que usted tiene buenas relaciones con las otras organizaciones en el campo donde presta sus servicios. Recuerde, las fundaciones donantes hoy en día están muy interesados en crear alianzas para que haya colaboración entre las organizaciones. Es más, pueden preguntarle por qué no está colaborando con aquellos que usted considera como sus competidores principales. Entonces, lo mínimo que usted debe presentar es cómo el trabajo de su organización complementa y no duplica el trabajo de otros.

Sexto, evite el razonamiento circular. En este tipo de razonamiento, usted presenta la ausencia de una solución como el verdadero problema y luego ofrece su solución como una manera de resolver el problema. Por ejemplo, el razonamiento circular para la construcción de una piscina comunitaria podría presentarse así: "El problema es que en nuestra comunidad no tenemos piscina. Es por eso que la construcción de una piscina resolverá el problema". Una manera más persuasiva de presentar su caso es demostrar que una piscina puede ofrecer recreación, facilitar la realización de ejercicios físicos, y permitir la creación de programas de rehabilitación física, convirtiéndola en un recurso importante y necesario para la comunidad. Su presentación puede incluir una encuesta que resalte las expectativas de la comunidad sobre el uso de la piscina y concluir haciendo la conexión entre cómo se piensa utilizar este servicio y cuáles son los beneficios potenciales que podrían ayudar a mejorar la calidad de vida en la comunidad.

El planteamiento de la necesidad no tiene que ser largo ni extenso. Por el contrario, debe ser breve. La información concisa atrae la atención del lector.

La descripción del proyecto

Esta sección de su propuesta debe tener cinco subcategorías: objetivos, métodos, personal/administración, evaluación y sostenibilidad. Los objetivos y los métodos determinan los requisitos de personal y administración. Ellos son el centro de atención durante la evaluación y se encargarán de dar los resultados del proyecto. La sostenibilidad depende directamente de su éxito, y por eso su capacidad para atraer el apoyo de otras fuentes. Las cinco subcategorías muestran cómo están conectadas entre sí para desarrollar el proyecto.

Objetivos

Los objetivos son los resultados mensurables del programa. Ellos ayudan a delinear sus métodos. Sus objetivos tienen que ser tangibles, específicos, concretos, medibles y ejecutables en un período específico. Las organizaciones en busca de recursos a veces confunden los objetivos con las metas, éstas son más conceptuales y abstractas. Para ilustrar mejor este punto, he aquí un ejemplo de la meta de un proyecto con un objetivo secundario:

Meta: Nuestro programa después de las clases ayudará a los niños a leer mejor.

Objetivo: Nuestro programa después de las clases ayudará a cincuenta niños a mejorar su nivel de lectura ascendiendo este nivel a un grado superior al actual, según lo demuestran los exámenes de lectura realizados después de haber participado en el programa por un período de seis meses.

La meta en este caso es abstracta: mejorar la capacidad en la lectura, mientras que el objetivo es más específico. Se puede lograr a corto plazo (seis meses) y evaluar (mejorar el nivel de lectura de 50 niños ascendiendo a un grado superior al actual).

Considerando que hay una gran competencia para recaudar fondos, los objetivos bien presentados son importantes para el desarrollo de una propuesta exitosa.

Utilizando otro ejemplo diferente, existen por lo menos cuatro tipos de objetivos:

1. Comportamiento - Se anticipa a una acción humana.

Por ejemplo: Cincuenta de los 70 niños participantes aprenderán a nadar.

2. Desempeño - Un plazo de tiempo específico durante el cual ocurrirá una acción humana, y durante el cual se espera un nivel de destreza o conocimiento.

Por ejemplo: Cincuenta de los 70 niños aprenderán a nadar dentro de los seis meses y aprobarán un examen de habilidad en natación que será supervisado por un socorrista especializado de la Cruz Roja.

3. Proceso - La manera en que se lleva a cabo el proceso es un fin en sí mismo.

Por ejemplo: Documentaremos los métodos de enseñanza utilizando e identificando aquéllos que tuvieron los mejores resultados.

4. Producto - Habrá un resultado tangible.

Por ejemplo: Se creará un manual que se utilizará en el futuro para enseñar natación a los niños de esta edad.

En todas las propuestas, usted habrá de definir uno o más objetivos de este tipo, dependiendo de la naturaleza de su proyecto. Asegúrese de presentar sus objetivos de una manera clara; que no sean confusos y que sobresalgan en la página. Usted puede utilizar números u otros tipos de subdivisiones que le ayuden a resaltar esa sección en el texto. Pero sobretodo, sea realista al establecer sus objetivos. No prometa algo que no pueda cumplir. Recuerde, la fundación donante va a querer que se le explique en el informe final del proyecto cómo se cumplieron los objetivos planteados.

Métodos

Al presentar los objetivos, usted le explicó a la fundación donante claramente los alcances del proyecto. En esta sección correspondiente a los métodos, usted describe las actividades específicas que se llevarán a cabo para cumplir dichos objetivos. Se considera de gran ayuda subdividir esta explicación sobre los métodos en los siguientes puntos: Cómo, cuándo, y por qué.

Cómo: Descripción detallada sobre los hechos que sucederán desde que el proyecto comienza hasta que termina. Los métodos deben estar de acuerdo con los objetivos planteados anteriormente.

Cuándo: La sección de métodos debe presentar el orden y el tiempo que tomará cada labor. Puede tener sentido elaborar una cronología o plan de trabajo para que el lector no tenga que delinear la secuencia por sí mismo...El plan de trabajo le dice al lector "cuándo" y provee otro resumen del proyecto que apoya el resto de la sección de métodos.

Por qué: Usted necesita defender los métodos escogidos, especialmente si son nuevos o poco convencionales. ¿Por qué el trabajo planificado lo llevará a los resultados que anticipa? Usted puede responder a esta pregunta de diferentes maneras, valiéndose del uso de ejemplos de otros proyectos en funcionamiento y de opiniones de expertos en la materia.

La sección de métodos permite al lector visualizar la puesta en práctica del proyecto. Debe convencer al lector que su agencia sabe lo que está haciendo y de esa manera establecer su credibilidad.

Personal/Administración

Al describir los métodos, usted habrá mencionado el personal que colaborará en el proyecto. Ahora necesita dedicar un par de frases a la discusión sobre la cantidad de personal, sus calificaciones y asignaciones específicas. Los detalles sobre los miembros individuales que participan en el proyecto se pueden incluir ya sea como parte de esta sección o como apéndice, dependiendo de lo extensa e importante que sea la información.

"Personal" se refiere a voluntarios o consultores, así como al personal de planta. La mayoría de los que escriben propuestas no preparan la sección de personal para el proyecto que se opera principalmente con voluntarios. Describir las tareas que los voluntarios desempeñan, sin embargo, puede ser útil para el lector de la propuesta. Esta información subraya el valor agregado por los voluntarios y los bajos costos del proyecto.

Para un proyecto con personal contratado, asegúrese de describir claramente qué personas trabajan a tiempo completo y quiénes trabajarán a tiempo parcial en el proyecto. Identifique al personal que está actualmente empleado por la organización y a el que tiene que contratarse para llevar a cabo el proyecto. ¿Cómo organizará el tiempo de un empleado que ya tiene otras asignaciones?

El salario y los costos del proyecto son afectados de acuerdo a las calificaciones del personal. Determine la experiencia práctica que necesita del personal clave, así como el nivel de experiencia y el perfil educativo. Si una persona ha sido seleccionada para dirigir el programa, resuma sus habilidades e incluya una biografía breve en el apéndice. Un buen director de proyectos puede influir en la decisión de la fundación donante.

Describa su plan para administrar el proyecto para el lector. Esto es especialmente importante si se trata de una operación grande, si más de una agencia colabora en el proyecto o si utiliza un agente fiscal. Debe quedar totalmente claro quién será la persona responsable de la administración financiera, de los resultados del proyecto y del informe final.

Evaluación

El plan de evaluación no debe considerarse únicamente cuando se haya completado el proyecto; debe formar parte del mismo. La inclusión del plan de evaluación en su propuesta indica que usted toma en serio sus objetivos y desea evaluar hasta qué grado los alcanzó. La evaluación es útil también en la administración. Como la planificación estratégica, ayuda a las organizaciones sin fines de lucro a refinar y mejorar sus programas. Una evaluación puede ser la mejor manera para que otros aprendan de su experiencia de cómo conducir un proyecto.

Existen varios tipos de evaluaciones formales. La primera mide el producto; otras analizan el proceso y las estrategias utilizadas en el proyecto. Casi todos los planes de evaluación se diseñan para poder determinar el efecto de un programa o proyecto sobre las personas que ese programa tiene como objetivo ayudar y para medir los objetivos mensurables de ese proyecto. Cualquiera de estas evaluaciones pueden ser apropiadas para su proyecto. La orientación que usted tome al respecto dependerá de la naturaleza del proyecto y de sus objetivos. Para cada tipo de evaluación, tendrá que describir la forma en que se recopilará la información a evaluarse y cómo se analizarán los datos.

La mayoría de las planes de evaluación incluyen tanto análisis cualitativos como cuantitativos. Usted debe presentar un plan detallando cómo se hará pública la evaluación y cómo se reportarán sus resultados. Por ejemplo, pueden utilizarse internamente o compartirse con la fundación donante, o pueden compartirse con un público más amplio. Es posible que la fundación donante opine acerca del alcance de la difusión de este documento. Muchas fundaciones también tendrán sugerencias acerca de quién debería realizar la evaluación, sea el personal de la misma organización o un equipo o consultores externos. Algunas fundaciones permiten que el costo de una evaluación externa se incluya en el presupuesto del proyecto.

Sostenimiento

Hoy en día, el mensaje más claro que expresan las fundaciones donantes es que las organizaciones tendrán que demostrar de manera concreta la viabilidad financiera del proyecto a largo plazo para el cual están solicitando apoyo, y también la viabilidad de la organización en sí.

No está de más decir que la mayoría de las fundaciones donantes no desean comprometerse a dar apoyo financiero de una manera permanente a una organización. Es más, ellos quieren que se les demuestre que su proyecto tiene un principio y un fin (con fecha de inicio y fecha de culminación); o si es para el fortalecimiento institucional de la organización (es decir, contribuirá con su futura autosuficiencia y/o permitirá aumentar servicios que produzcan ingresos); o hará que su organización sea más atractiva para otras fundaciones donantes en el futuro. Por las nuevas tendencias de adoptar principios de inversiones en el mercado dentro del sector filantrópico, presentar evidencia del sostenimiento financiero se convierte en un elemento de alta prioridad para una propuesta exitosa.

Es importante que sea muy específico sobre las actuales y futuras fuentes de recursos para la organización, tanto como ingresos adquiridos por medio de los programas y fondos recaudados; asimismo, tiene que presentar la base de apoyo financiero de su organización. He aquí un aspecto donde es muy importante tener estadísticas e informes financieros preparados en caso de que un futuro donante financiero los solicite, aunque usted no incluya esta información en la propuesta. Algunas fundaciones donantes, con mucha razón, querrán saber quien más recibirá una copia similar de esta propuesta. No tenga miedo de compartir esta información con la fundación donante.

El presupuesto

El presupuesto de su propuesta puede ser tan simple como un estado de cuentas de una página proyectando sus gastos. O su propuesta puede requerir una presentación más compleja, que muestre la proyección de donaciones e ingresos y datos concretos explicando los diferentes rubros para gastos o ingresos.

El presupuesto de gastos

Conforme vaya preparando el presupuesto, revise la propuesta y haga una lista de todas las actividades relacionadas con el personal y otras no relacionadas con él. Asegúrese de enumerar no solamente los costos nuevos en que incurrirá si se aprueba el proyecto, sino también cualquier otro gasto que resulte de otras actividades asignadas al proyecto. Después, tome las cifras más relevantes de la persona responsable de la contabilidad de su organización. Es posible que deba calcular qué proporción de los gastos incurridos se deben cargar al proyecto y cualquier costo nuevo, como salarios del personal que aún no se ha contratado para el proyecto. Ponga los costos identificados al frente de cada actividad en su lista.

DISASTER GRANTS & TOOLS

Su lista de los diferentes rubros del presupuesto y los cálculos que ha hecho para llegar a una cantidad estimada para cada rubro deben resumirse en una tabla de trabajo. Tenga estas cifras presentes para acordarse de cómo llegó a calcular el presupuesto. Estas tablas de trabajo pueden ser útiles para preparar la propuesta y discutirla con las fundaciones donantes; son también una herramienta valiosa para supervisar el proyecto una vez iniciado y para reportar sobre el mismo cuando lo haya completado.

Una parte de una tabla de trabajo para un proyecto que tendrá un año de duración puede reflejarse de la manera siguiente:

| Rubro                           | Descripción  | Costo   |
|---------------------------------|--|---|
| Director ejecutivo              | Supervisión  | 10% de su salario = $10,00025% de sus beneficios = $2,500                                     |
| Director del proyecto exclusiva | Contratado en el primer mes                            | 11 meses con dedicación con un salario anual $35,000 = $32,08325% de sus beneficios = $8,025 |
| Tutores                         | 12 que trabajan 10 horas por semana durante 13 semanas | 12 x 10 x 13 x $4.50 = $7,020   |
| Oficina                         | Ocupa el 25% del espacio disponible                    | 25% x $20,000 = $5,000  |
| Gastos generales                | 20% de los costos del proyecto                         | 20% x $64,628 = $12,926   |

Con su tabla de trabajo a la mano, está listo para preparar el presupuesto. Para la mayoría de los proyectos, estos costos deben agruparse en subcategorías seleccionadas para reflejar los aspectos críticos de los gastos. Todos los gastos significativos deben separarse en rubros dentro de subcategorías, pero los gastos pequeños pueden ser combinados en un solo renglón. Puede dividir sus gastos en dos rubros: gastos de personal y gastos no relacionados con el personal. La subcategoría de personal puede incluir salarios, beneficios y consultores. Las subcategorías bajo costos no relacionados con el personal pueden incluir gastos de viaje, equipos y gastos de imprenta, por ejemplo, con una cifra (en dólares) a la par de cada rubro. Los gastos administrativos o generales, también llamados costos indirectos, se deberían incluir en el presupuesto, ya que los proyectos no se llevan a cabo en aislamiento. De hecho, las fundaciones donantes podrían tener reglamentos limitando el porcentaje de gastos indirectos, en el caso de las fundaciones que ofrecen apoyo financiero con gastos indirectos incluidos.

Declaración de ingresos y donaciones

Para un proyecto en general, no es necesario presentar una declaración de ingresos y donaciones. El rubro de gastos dentro del presupuesto representa la cantidad que se va a necesitar en donaciones. Pero si ya se recibió una donación para la ejecución del proyecto, o si espera que las actividades del proyecto generen ingresos, entonces el lugar adecuado para presentar esta información es la declaración de ingresos y donaciones.

Al detallar las donaciones en rubros, haga una lista con todas las destinadas para la realización del proyecto; esto va a sugerir cómo asignar las nuevas donaciones. El total de las donaciones ya comprometidas en el proyecto se deben restar del renglón "Gastos totales" en la parte de gastos del presupuesto para que le indique la cantidad de "Fondos a recaudar" o "Saldo solicitado."

Todo ingreso anticipado debe incluirse en la declaración de ingresos y donaciones. Por ejemplo, si espera que 50 personas asistan a su presentación durante las cuatro noches, con un costo de $10 por boleto, y si espera que 20 de ellos compren un libro de recuerdo por $5 cada noche, entonces debe mostrar dos renglones de ingresos en el presupuesto, "Venta de boletos" a $2,000 y "Venta de libros de recuerdo" a $400. Así como en el presupuesto de gastos, usted debe guardar una tabla con las cifras de respaldo para la declaración de ingresos y donaciones para que le ayuden a recordar cuáles eran los ingresos esperados.

Narrativa del presupuesto

La parte escrita del presupuesto se utiliza para explicar las partes que no son comunes en el mismo y que no siempre son necesarias. Si los costos son claros y las cifras hablan por sí solas, entonces una explicación resultara redundante.

Si decide que es necesario proveer una explicación del presupuesto, puede estructurarla de una o dos formas. Puede crear "Apuntes sobre el presupuesto" con información al pie de página enumerando cada anotación con la cifra correspondiente. O, si hay una explicación más extensa o general, puede estructurar la narrativa del presupuesto dentro del texto. Sin embargo, recuerde, que la narrativa básica sobre el proyecto y su organización deben presentarse en otra parte de la propuesta, y no en la narrativa del presupuesto.

Información sobre la organización y conclusiones

Información sobre la organización

Normalmente el perfil de la organización debe ir al final de su propuesta. Su tendencia inicial será poner esta información al principio de la propuesta, pero, por lo general, es mejor vender las necesidades del proyecto y luego, la capacidad de la organización para llevarlo a cabo.

No es necesario abrumar al lector con datos acerca de su organización. Esta información puede presentarse fácilmente adjuntando un folleto u otra información breve que resuma a su organización, o invitando al lector a que visite su página web, si la tiene. En menos de dos páginas, cuénteles al lector cuándo fue fundada su organización, cuál es su misión, y cómo el contenido de la propuesta encaja dentro de la misión de la organización. Además, describa la estructura de la organización, sus programas y personal calificado.

Describa el tamaño de su junta directiva y explique cómo se reclutan a nuevos miembros y su nivel de participación. Ofrezca al lector un sentido de la composición de la junta. (Incluya la lista completa de la junta directiva en el apéndice.) Si su organización está compuesta de voluntarios o tiene un grupo activo de voluntarios, describa sus funciones. Incluya detalles sobre el personal, tales como la cantidad de trabajadores de dedicación completa y a tiempo parcial y su nivel de experiencia.

Describa qué tipo de actividades desempeña el personal. Explique brevemente la asistencia que usted proporciona. Explique a qué público atiende, sus necesidades especiales, y la razón por la cual ellos necesitan los servicios de su organización. También cite la cantidad de personas que se benefician de sus programas.

Una vez terminada la información sobre la organización, explique qué tipos de servicios especializados provee, en particular, si están relacionados al contenido de su propuesta.

Carta propuesta

En realidad, no todas las propuestas se van a apegar a estas guías. Esto no debe sorprenderle. En algunos casos, un proyecto pequeño podría requerir una propuesta del mismo tamaño, o el tipo de solicitud podría no requerir todos los componentes de una propuesta en la secuencia que hemos recomendado en este libro. Las guías y políticas de diferentes fundaciones serán su guía final. Muchas fundaciones hoy en día prefieren una propuesta breve por carta; otras requieren que complete una solicitud. De todas formas, deberá consultar los componentes básicos de una propuesta para estar seguro no haber omitido ningún detalle que le pueda ayudar a defender su propuesta.

Algunas veces, el tamaño del proyecto determina si requiere solamente la presentación de una carta o del formato de propuesta más extenso. Por ejemplo, una solicitud para comprar una máquina de fax por $1,000 para su organización no requiere una propuesta extensa. Una contribución pequeña para los costos de operación de la organización, particularmente si se trata de una renovación de contribuciones anteriores, puede requerir solamente una carta en vez de una propuesta más completa.

¿Cuáles son los elementos de una carta/propuesta? En la mayoría de los casos, usted debe seguir el formato de la propuesta completa, excepto en lo largo del documento. La carta no debe tener más de tres páginas. Usted debe utilizar sus habilidades de redacción para escribir cuidadosamente todos los detalles necesarios en la carta de manera que ésta sea clara y concisa.

Con respecto a la fluidez en la información, siga estos pasos teniendo en cuenta que está escribiendo una carta. Trate de no ser tan formal en su estilo como la propuesta completa. Puede ser necesario cambiar la secuencia del texto para alcanzar el tono adecuado y la fluidez deseada en la presentación de información.

He aquí algunos elementos de una buena carta/propuesta:

- Solicite la donación: La carta debe comenzar haciendo referencia a contactos anteriores que se hayan tenido con la fundación donante, si los hubo. Escriba el motivo de esta carta y el monto de la donación que está solicitando a la fundación.
- Presente la necesidad: En una forma abreviada, explique a la fundación por qué es necesario este proyecto, o equipo de oficina, etc.
- Explique lo que hará: Así como lo haría en una propuesta completa, presente suficientes detalles para despertar el interés de la fundación donante. Describa de manera precisa cuáles serán los resultados de la donación.

- Presente datos sobre su organización: Ayude al donante financiero a conocer más acerca de su organización incluyendo su misión, una descripción breve de los programas que ofrece la organización, la cantidad de personas que la organización atiende, y el personal, voluntarios y los miembros en su junta directiva, si es apropiado.
- Incluya la información apropiada sobre el presupuesto: Aun en una carta propuesta se puede incluir un presupuesto de media página. Decida si esta información debe estar incorporada en el cuerpo de la carta o en un documento aparte. Cualquiera que sea el método que elija, debe indicar los costos totales del proyecto. Únicamente mencione futuras donaciones si la ausencia de esta información podría suscitar dudas.
- Concluya: Así como en una propuesta larga, una carta propuesta necesita una conclusión contundente. Haga saber que está dispuesto a reunirse con la fundación donante y que puede proveer información adicional sobre su proyecto y su organización.
- Adjunte cualquier otra información adicional requerida: La fundación donante puede necesitar la misma información para una propuesta pequeña como para una más extensa: una lista de la junta directiva, una copia del documento de responsabilidad fiscal del IRS, documentación financiera y un curriculum vitae breve del personal clave.

El esfuerzo necesario para redactar una carta propuesta puede ser igual o mayor que el de una propuesta completa. No crea que no le tomará tiempo ni le resultará difícil por que se trate solamente de una carta. Cada documento que usted le entregue a una fundación donante dice algo sobre su organización. Cada paso que toma con el donante financiero debe crear una relación para el futuro.

Conclusión

Cada propuesta debe tener uno o dos párrafos de conclusión. Este es un buen lugar para brindar información sobre el futuro y qué se hará después que se concluya con el proyecto. Si es apropiado, conviene presentar algunas de las actividades complementarias que se podrían llevar a cabo y, de esta manera, preparar a la fundación donante para la próxima propuesta.

Esta sección también es donde usted puede apelar para que la fundación donante apoye el proyecto. Brevemente reitere qué es lo que quiere lograr su organización y por qué es importante hacerlo. Señale por qué su organización necesita fondos para lograr sus metas y objetivos. No tenga miedo en esta etapa de utilizar un poco de emoción para fortalecer su caso.

¿Qué pasará después?

La presentación de su propuesta no significa en absoluto el final de su participación en el proceso de concesión de propuestas. Los procedimientos para evaluar las propuestas varían mucho y el proceso para tomar la decisión puede tardar desde algunas semanas a seis meses o más tiempo. Durante el proceso de evaluación, es posible que la fundación pida información adicional directamente de usted o de los consultores externos o referencias profesionales. Invariablemente, este período es difícil para las personas que buscan una donación. Debe ser paciente, pero persistente. Algunas fundaciones describen sus procedimientos de evaluación en su informe anual o en las guías para hacer la solicitud. Si usted no está seguro del proceso, no dude en hacer preguntas.

Si logra una donación a través de su arduo trabajo, dedique un poco de tiempo a expresar su agradecimiento mediante una carta a la fundación que le brindó apoyo. Usted también necesita saber si la fundación tiene formularios, procedimientos y plazos específicos para reportar el progreso de su proyecto. Al aclarar sus responsabilidades como beneficiario de la fundación desde el principio, particularmente con respecto a los estados financieros, puede evitar malentendidos y problemas más graves en el futuro.

El ser rechazado tampoco significa necesariamente el final del proceso. Si no está seguro de la razón por la cual se rechazó su propuesta haga preguntas. ¿Necesita información adicional la fundación? ¿Podría interesarle considerar la propuesta en una fecha futura? Este puede ser un buen momento para iniciar una relación futura con la fundación. Incorporela en su lista de direcciones, para que pueda conocer mejor su organización. Recuerde, siempre hay un próximo año.
